

Operation 146, kick off, revanche

continuation of @bridge entry on 16.3.4: ... So, please do not trust anybody who tries to fuck my brain any longer and, please, never comply with their illegal orders any more! Instead everybody who appreciates daily to receive honest comments on the current global developments in these evil civilized war times should help me financially to bridge the time until I can collect my monetary claims in order to be able to live in a hostel rather than on the streets and to do my work concentrated and fulfill my duty without permanent interruptions!

This would have been the least sign of a minimum capability of love which the criminals who abuse my children should have demonstrated by granting it to me. These idiots probably really believe they could impress me by organising any event in Rome which would never have the chance to be the beginning of a successful consciousness healing process if they do not even understand the most essential basics of loving your next, let alone the completely wrong time context of a heavily developing world war with the huge virus attacks now complemented by chemicals-explosions in Beirut for such a time change display week in Rome!

Who knows what comes next but certainly sooner than later?! The criminal who claims to be a peace security advisor does not even feel obliged to show up and take a position regarding all of these worrying developments rather than just to go on playing happy peace time games to provide the literally talented soldiers who most probably have to step on the (domestic) scene next if humankind wants to survive with some ideas of what to write about as if sea missions in Lybia and Lebanon would since Erich Maria Remarque be nothing new in the west. And indeed, if you look at the Bundeswehr web page which informs about the current missions abroad you would not believe that at home ever took place only one single Romeo and Juliet play!

It was me, not him, who told everybody from the very beginning of the pandemic in April that this virus is a military attack on the civil world population and did not jump over from some food market in Wuhan. Now, a few days ago, I have started to read „Homo Deus“ the second in the international feuilletons highly recommended popularscientific world best seller of Yuval Noah Harari the author of „Sapiens“. I may quote this historian from the Universities of Jerusalem and Oxford. On page 16 of the vintage paperback, CIP catalogue record of the British Library: ISBN9781784703936, published in 2016 (!), it reads: „So in the struggle against natural calamities such as AIDS and Ebola the scales are tipping in humanity's favour. But what about the danger inherent in human nature itself? Biotechnology enables us to defeat bacteria and viruses, but it simultaneously turns humans themselves into an unprecedented threat. The same tools that enable doctors to quickly identify and cure new illnesses may also enable armies and terrorists to engineer even more terrible diseases and doomsday pathogens. It is therefore likely that major epidemics will continue to endanger humankind in the future only if humankind itself creates them in the service of some ruthless ideology. The era when humankind stood helpless before natural epidemics is probably over. But we may come to miss it!“ Harari wrote this in 2016 quite a while before this corona II virus discovered daylight and nobody declared him a conspiracy theoretician!

However, after the virus has come out of invitro the same theory suddenly is tabu and strictly avoided by the most reputed virologists who instead defend the only real conspiracy theory which is the assertion that the virus comes over us directly from nature making a big bow around every human laboratory as if they were owned by the devil! (compare my text „Verschwörungstheorie“ from 21.1.4, over three months ago! Nothing happend until the infection count is now rising again and the next lockdown is coming closer despite all the contrary promises of our Berlin muppets show!) This is not the way how to deal effectively with such a huge danger for mankind. Everybody knows that a second lockdown is going to break the necks of those small entrepreneurs who run their own businesses from shops restaurants bars and ho(s)tels to tailors, bycycle repair shops, hair stylists and most important typicle Kiosks around every corner who hardly survived the first forced collective closure because the promised help did not reach them resp. was much too minor and/but who shape the character of our cities and give our society its soul rather than big shopping centers and fast food chains only. They claim to provide the collective with pleasure and happiness in order to justify the brutal, cruel and ruthless crimes against my individual family humanity but the truth is that they murder the collective not less harmful when they expect us to accept the disapearance of our life quality which is replaced by anonymous mass consumerism and new full time employment structures at short time labour conditions. Those who lose their businesses are not going to be in good negotiating positions, more than ever if they have to feed partners and children. The same applies to the work force which had been employed in the automotive sector and airways travel business already and who were degraded to short time employment in the course of the first lockdown already. They are going to be told that they may be happy if they keep their jobs which go back to full time but rest on the short payment basis since otherwise Lufthansa (!) needed to file for insolvency procedures. Nobody wonders why exactly and especially the good old German Lufthansa would not be able to recover easily from two months breakdown what is expected selfcomprehensively from our small entrepreneurs and what does not seem to affect the rest of the international airlines similarly who do have exactly the same market conditions to master.

Once more but most probably for the last time I tell our politicians and demand of them the following. Listen and read carefully and better comply: The only trustworthy way to deal with this corona virus danger which has been predicted by Mr Harari in 2016 already and uncontradicted is to admit the abstract possibility that the virus does not come from a laboratory since this is a concrete high probability but that it comes from a German laboratory! If I were a citizen of Happy Island of the Grenadines I would exactly demand the same of St. Vincent and the Grenadines. The German government has to make sure that it is not a German lab in which this virus has been engineered. This finding must result from believable and true efforts of search for the virus origin in every lab which could have theoretically produced this weapon. Our good army experts should have some ideas where to look for it as well as our medical (virological and biochemical) staff rather must have, than only should, a clue where to look in their civilised used biotech facilities. Only if these efforts have believably truly been made without any findings our Beau Mr. Maas may enter the room with the round table of his prestigious new New York appointment which has – and this is much more important than any pretige – a crucial responsibility for the security of the entire mankind, and say: „We Germans have made our homework and we can assure you with good conscience that the virus has not been engineered in our labs. Please do the same searches in your labs, my dear colleauges (one of which comes from the Grenadines in the caribbean, by the way) and if you do not find the origin in your countries either we have to think again where it could have been engineered. If none of the fifteen security council members can be made responsible it can actually only come from one of the remaining U nations or Stadt, the permanent visitor without voice (but huge bells not in their pants but their begging houses). In order to avoid discord among the members I would suggest to begin with the non member Stadt. Any objections?“ This, Mr. Maas, is how you comply with your responsibility which you wanted to take over so desperately. Your people are waiting.

And not only your people are waiting. I may come back to my text operation_146. This was no fiction, to make this very clear! The seniors in our senior residences have been murdered until Mrs. Merkel hit the emergency break when I pointed to their helpless situation. In Köln Rodenkirchen the senior residence reported that during the strict visit prohibition the symptomatic inhabitants had been separated within the facility in order to avoid infection and other risks. When the symptoms had disappeared not to the intensive care unit of the next hospital but to the cemetery the prohibition to visit the few survivors was terminated too and everybody hopes to remain spared from another infection wave. 146 by the way is the provision of our basic law according which our FLA is entitled to take over government businesses.

This might of course very well be done too under the command of the head of our military protection forces, inspector general Eberhard Zorn, who might feel that his responsibility is touched now after nobody of the primarily responsible political class reacted on my purple miracle rain except for Angie but who opened her umbrella for a few seniors only who had passed away before already. Insofar, admitted, but only insofar „you are in the army now“ and the follow up „operation_146“ have been fictive as in this novel scenario for literature purposes the head lead was sleeping too deeply and the action took place on the major and colonel level which is closer to the recruits who had to be educated and made familiar with the most crucial law for every soldier of conscience reservation be it an army or a party soldier. Everybody who followed the story and who takes this very life essential rule serious enough is never going to take the chosen story set up personally, Mr. Maas, but felt maybe reset back on his own recruit class room chair. Where by the way, did you serve your country, Mr. Maas? So better be aware of your expectation to be arrested soon due to your failure in your newly acquired high responsibility position in case you do not manage to comply with your respective duties now very very quickly. I would give you until the end of this week maximum in order to address your council member colleagues in the above outlined way since this week school has reopened in many Bundesländern already and our children have suffered enough already most of all my ones in representation of all of our youth the most valuable members of our society!

Another reason is that I have to leave my current hostel location on Friday already again due to the most evil crime in history which I have the undoubtable pleasure to be the victim of as soon as our laws are going to be applicable again in my person too and this is not only to my disadvantage but in both directions of course which is self comprehensive and only a matter of time. I do not see any robust reason why I should accept to be treated as print disabled for instance but in the same time as having a special entitlement to free accomodation in our jails just for being print disabled and nothing more excluding the expectation maybe of every person in time history about who is reported anything in the news to wait and get a glimpse of my comments or even thoughts only on this particular piece of news. If you would contradict me here, please let me know your reasons. Otherwise take the right actions immedietely. Do not feel blamed or ashamed. This would be stupid and distract you from your duties. And consolidate yourself, you are not alone in this situation. Think about my brother this people scammer, who is in exact the same dilemma and who seems even to be more handicpped than you. So safe your life and together with it many of our lifes too.

Good night!
